HE WAS MISTAKEN.

The Young Army Officer Was Not a Coward After All.

At the battle of Santiago a surgeon going to the front came upon a young officer sitting beside the road trembling like a leaf and whiter than the dead men around him. At sight of the surgeon he began to talk.

"I'm a coward. I'm a coward. I'm a coward," he said. "I knew I'd run, and I did. O Lord, I wish you'd kill me! I'm disgraced forever. I just got scared. I knew I would. I was going along all right, not thinking of anything but getting at the dashed Spaniards, yelling at my men to come on and running ahead as fast as I could, when all of a sudden I stubbed my toe or something, and then I can't remember being scared, but I must have been, for I came galloping back here sick as a dog. Oh, I feel so awfully gone! I'm a blanked coward, and I wish I was dead. O Lord, why doesn't somebody shoot me? I've got such an awful goneness right here." And he put his hand to his stomach. The surgeon gave him a quick look and caught him as he plunged forward in a faint. Where the awful goneness was a Mauser bullet had found its billet. They carried the wounded man to the field hospital, and he chuckled all the way.

"Oh, my! Oh, my!" he said over and over. "I wasn't scared! I wasn't scared!" And then he would laugh delightedly. "I wasn't scared! I was hit! I was just hit! I ain't a coward after all!"—Washington Post.

FICTION AND FACT.

Dreams of Authors That Have Been Turned Into Realities.

The delver among old books often finds, says the Berlin Umschau, prophecies made by writers which in their day were nothing but romance. This can be so easily observed by reading the works of Jules Verne, and there are also books in which airships, the telephone, photography and the motor wagon have been spoken of generations before these were accomplished facts. A novel entitled "Der Kluge Mann," published by Voss & Co., Leipsic, 1795, by an author named Cramer shows a Roentgen picture. The story tells of the Countess Abilinia, who gave her heart to the knight Gibello. The knightly lover was thoughtless enough, however, to kill his ladylove's father, and her affection turned to hatred, and she vowed to kill him. In a dream she saw the man who had fascinated her, and she stood ready to kill him, when suddenly his form changed, and before her stood a grinning skeleton, saying, "I have already been punished." This scene is illustrated in the old book, and the picture is not unlike a Roentgen photograph, but when it was published no one probably would have believed that science within a comparatively short time would make it possible to produce this picture, which the author's imagination invented.

Kaffirs' Love Letters.

The Basutos prove an interesting study. Not that they have any depths of character, but theirs is a very happy go lucky nation. These South Africans are romantic and sentimental, but it's all on the surface. Here are a few amusing paragraphs from Kaffirs' love letters:

"My sweet flowers, the ink and the paper are very glad, because they will see your dear, beautiful face, but the the pen and me are truly sad, for we are staying behind!"

"My love for you is burning like a paraffin stove!"

"Oh, you are so beautiful! You look like a peacock sitting under a willow tree!"

"My love for you is as true as a clock that keeps the time!"

A Little Case of Telepathy.

"There is nothing strange to me in the operation of one mind upon another," the telepathic woman said. "Once when my sister I am very fond of was operated on I went with her and sat in the anteroom a long way off from the operating room—that is, I walked up and down there, worried to death nearly about her, when all at once I threw myself into a big armchair and went sound asleep. They had just given her the ether then, so her mind was at rest and rested mine. I slept until she came out from under the influence."

Lucky Will.

Amateur Actor (who has just concluded a performance of the part of Hamlet, to a friend who has been one of the audience)—Well, old fellow, don't you feel inclined to congratulate some one?

Friend—Indeed, I do.

Amateur (with vainglorious mien)—May I so far infringe on modesty as to ask his name?

Friend—Certainly. His name is Shakespeare, and I heartily congratulate him on his unavoidable absence.

More Darkness.

"I'm all in the dark about how these bills are to be paid," said Mr. Hardup to his wife.

"Well, Henry," said she as she pulled out a colored one and laid it on the pile, "you will be if you don't pay that one, for it's the gas bill."

Unmusical.

Critique—Ah, Wagner and Strauss give us the music of the future! Caustique—Well, after hearing some of it one has a curiosity to know what the noise of the future is going to be like. —Boston Traveler.

Save Money.

"Did your husband have any sort of luck at the races yesterday?"

"Splendid! The street car system broke down, and he didn't get there till they were all over."—Judge.

A LECTURE FOR HIM.

Why the Bright Little Woman Scored Her Thoughtless Husband.

A bright little woman was recently overheard lecturing her husband as follows:

"Now I'll tell you why I wouldn't go into the restaurant and have a cup of coffee with you while we were waiting for the train. I didn't like the way you asked me. Not half an hour before you said to Mr. Puffer, 'Come, let's get a cigar,' and away you went, holding his arm and not giving him a chance to decline.

"When we met John Howdy on our way to luncheon you said: 'Just in time, John. Come take lunch with us.' And then tonight, when we had to wait an hour for the train, you looked at your watch, turned on me and said in a questioning way, 'Would you like a cup of coffee?' And I did want it. I was tired and a little hungry, but I would have fainted before I would have accepted such an invitation. And you went away a little bit vexed with me and had your coffee and bread and butter by yourself and didn't enjoy them very much. In effect you said to me, 'If you want a cup of coffee, if you really want it, I will buy it for you.'

"You are the best husband in the world, but do as nearly as all the best husbands do.

"Why do you men seem to dole out things to your wives when you fairly throw them to the men you know? Why didn't you invite me heartily as you invite men? Why didn't you say, 'Come, let's get a little coffee and something,' and take me straight away with you?

"You wouldn't say to a man, 'Would you like me to go and buy you a cigar?' Then why do you always issue your little invitations to treats in that way to me?

"Indeed, if men would only act toward their wives as heartily, cordially and frankly as they do toward the men whom they meet they would find cheerier companions at home than they could at the club."—San Francisco Chronicle.

PRICE OF A THRONE.

Luxury Expenditures at the Court of Napoleon.

One of the oldest Paris firms for gold and silk embroideries, a house which had already served Louis XVI. and his court with highly artistic needlework, is still in possession of its accounts of former centuries. An inspection of these books reveals a good summary of the luxury expenditures of the French court, the Bonapartistic as well as the legitimistic. Napoleon I., who for his own wants was, in contrast to the spendthrifty Josephine, very economical, went, though, to a large expense when it was for representative gala dresses. The 10,000 francs which he had to pay for the embroidery on his coronation robe he did not consider too high a price. But his embroidered frock coat that had cost him 3,500 francs and which became too tight for him not long after its first year he ordered to be widened by pieces of cloth and the new seams to be covered with embroideries. The bill for his throne, however, foots up to a pretty considerable amount. The outer drapery of purple velvet, trimmed with gold lace, was 10,200 francs. The red velvet panels were strewn with inworked golden bees at 5 francs apiece, and above the fauteuil the emperor's coat-of-arms was seen in raised embroidery; total cost, 16,200 francs. The inner drapery consisted of blue satin with gold lace at 9,600 francs. Gold embroidered stripes for the inner trimming cost 8,500 francs. Embroidery on the blue velvet fauteuil amounted to 3,020 francs, the foot cushion to 1,200. In addition there were 1,050 bees on the unembroidered panels of the baldachin at the price of 5,250 francs. Altogether the price of Napoleon's throne was 53,970 francs.—Harper's.

Delightful Gift.

Little Miss Hamlin is a grateful soul, and her many relations find it a pleasure to do her kindnesses and present her with appropriate gifts.

"You certainly were well remembered on your birthday," said a friend. "What did your uncle, Dr. Grantham, give you?"

"He hasn't given it to me yet," said little Miss Hamlin, "but next month, when he isn't quite so busy, he's going to give me my appendicitis operation. Isn't that good of him?"—Youth's Companion.

Qualified to Do It.

"Did you know," said the tooth carpenter, looking up from his paper, "that the Indians practiced dentistry in the earliest times?"

"I didn't know it," replied the man who had once sat in a dentist's chair, "but I am not at all surprised. The Indians have always been a brutal and cruel race."

Then he laughed gleefully, forgetful of the fact that there was still time for the dentist to add $15 or $20 to his bill.—Chicago Post.

HOLMQUIST ELECTED.

Democratic Candidates Carry County In Hard Fight.

The King is dead—long live the King! [illegible]

After a whirlwind close of the campaign, in which automobiles, bands, and spellbinders were in evidence to bring enthusiasm up to a fever heat, the election on Tuesday went off as quietly as a May day picnic with no disputes or arguments to mar the dignity of the occasion. The results were not what had been expected or what the members of the dominant party had hoped for, as only one of the Republicans on the local ticket was elected.

Mr. H. E. Holmquist alone succeeded in getting his full party vote and ran even with the head of the ticket. Mr. Holmquist will make an excellent assemblyman and his constituents may feel sure that their interests will be guarded as safely by him as if they were his own. We predict a bright political future for this young man.

Mr. Hall C. Ross, candidate for Senator, went down to defeat before the prowess of Mr. James B. Holohan, the big, good-natured orchardist of Watsonville. San Mateo was loyal to Mr. Ross and [illegible] nice majority, but the vote given to the Democratic candidate in Santa Cruz county was overwhelming.

Judge George H. Buck will, health permitting, continue upon the superior bench of the county for six more years. Mr. Bullock, his opponent, was conceded an easy winner, but the voters of the county were evidently satisfied with Judge Buck, as they gave him a large majority.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the election was the failure of Redwood City to give Honest John MacBain a fine, big majority, and this failure gave the office of supervisor to Mr. P. H. McEvoy, who was defeated for the same office by Mr. MacBain four years ago.

In the First Township, Mr. James Casey defeated the present incumbent Mr. J. E. Eikerenkotter, by about 150 votes. This was the most hotly contested fight of the election, but even before Tuesday many of Mr. Eikerenkotter's friends had conceded the election to Mr. Casey.

In the Fourth Township, Mr. Joseph Francis, the Democratic candidate, defeated Thomas Johnston, Republican, by 27 votes. This contest was perhaps the most friendly ever conducted on the coast side, and although Mr. Johnston is naturally disappointed he is glad that so good a man as his friend Francis was elected.

The county gave Hayes for Congress a fine majority of 800 and above all President Taft, who is to carry our country on to a greater era of prosperity, received a majority of nearly 1500 votes. We are glad that the election is over. We would have chosen differently, perhaps, had the full choice been ours. The people have decided, however, and we are satisfied to abide by their choice.

Though the officials-elect are not of our political faith, we believe that they are all good, honest and sincere men, and we herewith pledge them our hearty support in every measure which will make San Mateo a better and a happier county.

No. 46 A Street, REDWOOD CITY, CAL.

H. W. TAVERNER, Manager

Schussler Retires

After forty-eight years with the Spring Valley Water Company, and for most of that time chief engineer, Hermann Schussler has been relegated to the position of consulting engineer, with a material decrease in his $25,000 a year salary. The reason given by President W. B. Bourn for this act is that there is no construction work on hand, and, under the circumstances, the chief engineer is too well paid.

Schussler planned and executed the greater portion of the present Spring Valley system and has been an efficient engineer, doing all that was possible with the water works.

LOCALS IN A BRIEF FORM

Gerge Wiechring, proprietor of the Red Front Cigar store, will give free a $30 suit to be made to order at Carl Muller's, a $5.00 hat and a pair of shoes. A chance will be given with each game of billiards or pool. The drawing will take place New Year's eve.

Judge Buck has granted an interlocutory decree of divorce to Annie M. Isadorio from her husband, Joseph Isadorio on the grounds of cruelty. The Isadorios are residents of Redwood City.

Mr. L. H. Britton, principal of the Gonzales High School, visited here last Sa.urday.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lambert, who have been spending the last six weeks traveling through the Eastern states, visiting their former homes, returned the fore part of the week.

Miss Lois E. Hatch, who was a very popular member of the class of 1901 at Sequoia High School, and who left here to enter the Lane Hospital where she trained as a nurse, was united in mariage to Mr. Paul E. Mack of San Francisco, Monday. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's grandparents at Yuba City. Mr. Mack is a businessman of the metropolis, and after a honeymoon in the southern part of the state, he and Mrs. Mack will return to San Francisco to make their home.

Mrs. S. M. Saunders has been here from Petaluma spending a few days with friends.

The following members of Sequoia Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, were elected to hold office during the ensuing year: Worthy Matron, Mrs. E. B. Fox; Worthy Patron, Mr. P. P. Chamberlain; Associate Matron, Mrs. Robert Brown; Conductress, Miss Louise Barrett; Secretary, Miss May Cook; Treasurer, Mrs. C. L. McCracken.

The San Mateo County Board of Education held a special meeting at the office of County Superintendent Cloud last Saturday, all members being present. The matter of semi-annual promotions was taken up and as the San Mateo School desired to adopt the plan it was moved and carried that any school district having twenty or more teachers might, if it saw fit, adopt the semi-annual promotion plan.

It was decided that the San Mateo County Teachers' Institute be held in conjunction with the California State Teachers' Association at San Jose, December 28, 29, 30, and 31, and every teacher will be expected to join the association.

Mr. Joseph Nash has again assumed his duties as County Clerk, but is still rather weak.

Warren Walker came down from San Francisco Tuesday and greeted old friends. Mr. Walker looks as young and spry as he did 25 years ago.

The Republican rally at the Alhambra last Monday night was a genuinely good one and reminded us of the old times. There was lots of music and lots of enthusiasm. Sam Shortridge, the peerless one, was there with his usual flow of figures and rhetoric, and made a favorable impression upon his hearers. District Attorney Free of Santa Clara county made a good talk and put in a good word for the party candidates.

Drop into the Red Front cigar store and enjoy a game of pool or billiards and smoke a Golden Eagle and Oakwood cigar. They are the best ten-cent smoke in town.

Frightens Burglar Away.

Mrs. F. H. Thorpe was awakened about 2 o'clock Thursday morning by a burglar ransacking her bureau. With wonderful presence of mind she addressed her little boy, telling him that she would light a lamp and see what he wanted. This frightened the fellow and he tip-toed out of the room, whereupon Mrs. Thorpe lighted the lamp and finding that the burglar had gone immediately notified the sheriff. Later on Sheriff Chatham arrested two suspicious looking characters who had been hanging around at the time of the fire and who could give no account of themselves.

A general fire alarm was rung in about 2 o'clock Thursday morning and upon responding to the call the volunteer department found a fire burning fiercely in the sheds at the rear of the Redwood City House. Under the directions of Chief Lowe the firemen worked like beavers and after a hard and determined fight succeeded in checking the flames.

The fire might have been one of the most disastrous in the history of the town, for had the Redwood City House caught fire the whole block would have gone, as the buildings are all of wood and built close together.

The fire department deserves great credit for its effective service.

Drowned in the Creek.

An Italian, named Maniro Isidoro, who has been working at the salt works for the past few months, came to town last Sunday and made a few purchases. He failed to return and a search was made when the empty boat was found. The search was continued and the body was found floating in the creek Thursday. The unfortunate man had evidently fallen from the boat and being unable to swim had drowned.

Answers Last Summons

William Hughes, one of the best known residents of this county, passed away at his home on the Middlefield road Saturday morning. Mr. Hughes had been ailing for some time past and his demise was not a surprise to his many friends. The end of this good man came suddenly and painlessly and after a season of weakness he simply went to sleep and slept with his fathers.

William Hughes was born in Maine seventy-five years ago. At the age of twenty he left his native state and went to Aurora, Nevada, where he engaged in mining. While at Aurora he married and took his young bride to the bustling mining camp, where they remained a couple of years. Tiring of mining, they came to California and settled in the beautiful Portola valley, at Searsville, where he remained until fifteen years ago, when he came to Redwood City to reside. Upon his arrival in this county he engaged in the lumbering business and in connection with Mr. A. Peers of Mayfield maintained several saw mills, accumulating considerable money thereby.

About three years ago Mrs. Hughes died and last year Mr. Hughes married Mrs. Rufus Murphy, the widow of a former business associate. His death is mourned by the widow and by his adopted daughter, Mrs. A. W. Collins of San Francisco.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon and was conducted by Redwood City Lodge, 168, Free and Accepted Masons. The interment was in Union cemetery this city, where he had erected a massive vault.

H. J. Downing of Chico, who has been visiting friends in Redwood for several days, has returned to his home.

Articles of Incorporation

The following articles of incorporation were filed in the county clerk's office during the week:

The James R. Doyle Company incorporate with a capital stock of $20,000, divided into 500 shares at a par value of $40 each. The purposes of the incorporation are to engage in merchandise business at Menlo Park and to buy and sell real estate. The actual amount of stock subscribed is $20,000 by the following stockholders: James R. Doyle, 300 shares, $12,000; William A. Doyle, 50 shares, $2,000; Mary G. Flinn, 50 shares, $2,000; Annie W. Ahlert, 50 shares, $2,000; Frances M. Brody, 50 shares, $2,000.

Probably His Last Vote

Dr. R. O. Tripp of Woodside voted for Taft last Tuesday. He is in his ninety-third year and is supposed to be the oldest voter in the state. He is said to have cast his first ballot in 1836. He was the first postmaster of Woodside and still holds the position.

A smart turnout belonging to R. C. Walters, the carpet merchant, who resides at Fair Oaks, and being driven by his coachman, Joseph Garr, was run into by a Palo Alto street car Thursday at the corner of Hamilton avenue and Waverly street. The car struck the rig squarely, and carried it about 40 feet before the gripman, Fred Bishop, could apply the brakes. The coachman was severely bruised, being taken to the Guild Hospital for treatment, and the turnout was a complete wreck. The responsibility for the accidentt has not been placed.

It is understood that Samuel M. Shortridge will be again selected to carry the returns from California and sit in the electoral college at Washington. Yesterday he said he was not certain whether he could find time to accept the honor if it were tendered to him.

PICKED UP BY REPORTERS

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—On the Saturday night prior to election a woman was shot in the finger outside the saloon of Bianchini and Mazzetti. An Italian dance was in progress at the back of the saloon and when the festivities had ceased the shooting commenced. The case was called yesterday in Judge McSweeny's court and Jas. T. O'Keefe appeared for the defendant, Mazzetti who had been charged with the shooting. The woman who was shot could not say who it was that shot her. Upon the advise of his attorney Mazzetti pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace and he was sentenced to pay a fine of $2500 which he paid.

Halloween passed with very little trouble to the people of this burg this year. The umischievous sprites and elves are supposed to be particularly active on the last day of October as it merges into the early hours of the following month, must have been drugged, or tied up with some strong deterring power that spoiled their pranks Your correspondent has yet to learn of gates unhinged, of signs misplaced, of wagons turned upside down, or any of the hundred and one peculiar things having occurred that should have taken place at Halloween. One of the inhabitants had expressed his intention of sitting up all night with a view to scare off the sprites with a shot gun. But for that night in Pescadero at least whilst he kept vigil, if he did, the fairies and the elves, and all the little hobgoblins, the srpites and the spookes, slumbered and slept. The morning dawned, daylight dispersed all shadows, and tthe sun looked down surprised no doubt that during his absence so little advantage had been taken of the friendly dark.

Agent Dismissed

SAN MATEO, Nov. 6.—Gilbert Sproule, Southern Pacific agent at Burlingame, has been dismissed from service on the grounds that he was holding a position as Deputy Collector of Port in San Francisco, while his wife was conducting the work at the Burlingame station. Curious Russian Law.

Russia has a law which to outside observers seems almost to put a premium on theft by which stolen goods become the property of the thief if he can prove that he has had possession of them for over five years. In the thieves' market—which is, of course, licensed by the police—goods that admittedly have been stolen (more than five years before) are openly offered for sale, and the place is a veritable Mecca for the light fingered gentry and their enterprising friends, as also for the more honest members of society, who secure many a tempting bargain.

Constant Squeezing.

"Now, Algernon," said Miss Fussanfeather, as she was tightly held in the embrace of her fiance, "they tell me that men get tired of squeezing after they are married. Will you promise me not to give it up after we are man and wife?"

"Oh, I assure you it is not necessary to make any such promises," replied the young man. "I guarantee you'll have all the squeezing you want to do to get along on $7 a week."—Exchange.

Flattered Him.

Magistrate (about to commit for trial)—You certainly effected the robbery in a remarkably ingenious way—in fact, with quite exceptional cunning. Prisoner (deprecatingly)—No flattery, yer honor; no flattery, I begs on yer.—London Fun.

Unruffled.

Master—Mary, I wish you would be more careful. I'm sorry to hear my wife has to scold you so often. Mary—Oh, it's all right, sir. I seldom takes any notice of her.—London Telegraph.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY OF SAN MATEO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.
In the matter of the Estate of Hattie D. Kreiss-Green, Deceased. No. 971.
ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE WHY ORDER OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE SHOULD NOT BE MADE.

Robert H. Green, the administrator of the estate of Hattie D. Kreiss-Green, deceased, having duly presented to and filed in the above entitled court and matter his verified petition praying for an order of sale of certain real estate belonging to the estate of said deceased; and it duly appearing to said court from said petition that it is necessary, and that it will be for the advantage, benefit and best interests of the estate and those interested therein, to sell the whole or some portion of the real estate of said deceased for the purposes and reasons mentioned in section 1537 of the Code of Civil Procedure and in such petition,

IT IS ORDERED, that the heirs of said deceased and all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before this court on Monday, the 9th day of November, 1908, at the hour of ten o'clock a. m., at the court-room of said court, Odd Fellows' Building, Redwood City, California, and then and there show cause, if any they have, why an order should not be granted to said administrator for the sale of said real estate at either public or private sale, and as prayed for in said petition; and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for four (4) successive weeks before the said day of hearing in the Times-Gazette, a newspaper printed and published in said county of San Mateo, State of California.

Dated this 8th day of October, 1908.
GEO. H. BUCK,
Judge of said Superior Court.

THE PRICE OF PEPPER.

It Helped to Change the History of the Old World.

In the sixteenth century all the pepper consumed in England was bought by the English merchants from the Dutch, who brought it from India. Owing to racial jealousy, the Dutch traders in 1599 raised the cost from 3 shillings to 6 shillings per pound. This petty display of ill feeling caused considerable annoyance to the English merchants and aroused in them that feeling of independence which has always been so characteristic of our race.

They determined to import their pepper direct from India in their own ships and for this purpose formed a company, called the Governor and Company of Merchants of London Trading to the East Indies, which in latter days became eventually known as the East India company.

Their first voyages embroiled them in almost innumerable quarrels with the Dutch and Portuguese, and for a time the venture proved a financial failure. It was not until 1615 that the company became successful and obtained lucrative treaties, owing to their decisively defeating the Portuguese.

From this time on their possessions gradually increased, slowly at first and then very rapidly, until, by the wise and beneficial management of such men as Clive, Warren Hastings and Cornwallis, they exercised sovereignty over the greater portion of India.

In this manner it happened that an increase in the price of pepper momentously affected the history of mankind.—London Standard.

DIVISIONS OF TIME.

The Planet Venus Has Neither Days, Months Nor Years.

Though the fundamental division of time, the day, appears intuitive to most persons, it is well to remember that in the arctic regions the marking of this division is by no means easy. During several successive months the sun is either always below or always above the horizon, and the only method—a very uncertain one—of distinguishing between day and night is to observe the times of high and low tide. Division of time into months comes from the motions of the moon. Malays, Polynesians and Australian aborigines reckon time exclusively by months and days.

That greater unit of time, the year, characterized by the regular succession of the seasons, has presented the greatest difficulties to exact determination, partly because the seasons are not sharply distinguished in some regions, partly because of the universal desire to establish among the year, month and day simple relations which find no support in the facts of astronomy.

Inhabitants of Venus, if there are any, must find it extremely difficult to establish units of time. Venus always turns the same face toward the sun, so the planet has no day, and the lack of a moon deprives it of a month. Finally, it has no year, for its axis of rotation is perpendicular to the plane of its orbit and the latter is almost circular.—Chicago News.

Tea as a Panacea.

In its early days in England a wide range of curative virtues was claimed for tea. In the Mercurius Politicus of Sept. 30, 1658, appears a marvelous advertisement extolling the virtues of "that excellent and by all physicians approved China drink called tcha and tay alias tee." And there is in the British museum a broad sheet issued by the founder of Garraway's in which its "particular virtues" are displayed at length. Among many other things, it "helpeth the headache, removeth the obstructions of the spleen, cleareth the sight and purifieth adult humors and a hot liver. It prevents and cures agues, surfeits and fevers, prevents consumptions, is good for colds, dropsies and scurvies and expelleth infection." No wonder that it "hath been sold for £10 the pound weight."—Westminster Gazette.

Smart.

Slick (to Blossom)—Is this Mr. Bloomer's office? Blossom—No. His office is on the other side of the passage. Slick (leaving the door open as he walks out)—Thank you, sir. Blossom—Hey! Come back and close that door! Haven't you any doors in your house? Slick—Yes, sir, but they all have springs on 'em. Allow me to show you, sir, my patent double back action door spring. It closes the door without a bang and will last a lifetime.

Discriminating.

"Of course," the British tourist was saying, "I understand that the winning party at your elections is the one that gets out the most voters."

"Not at all," replied the native. "It's the party that puts in the most votes."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Good Turns.

"De Writer was telling me he expected Crittick of the Morning Bugle to do his book a good turn."

"Yes? Well, he seems to have given it two or three good turns. He roasted it pretty thoroughly."—Exchange.

Setting Him Right.

The poet was busy at his desk.

"The fire of genius is burning, eh?" queried the casual caller.

"Not so you can notice it," replied the rhymester. "That's my cigar you smell."—Chicago News.

For a man to exert his powers in doing good so far as he can is a most glorious task.—Sophocles.
